Job queue architecture

The API validates export requests before adding them to a queue. A worker processes accepted jobs separately from the request.

Request validation

Export sequence

